RISK MANAGEMENT REVISED

Instructor Training October 11-12 / Hyundai Training Center

The time has come to revise the content of the Risk Management course that is required for all real estate licensees. As a result of a ruling by commissioners and an amendment to Rule 790-X-1-.11 of Alabama License Law, the CE requirements for the next license period will be 6 hours in Risk Management courses (Levels 1 and 2) and 9 hours in other Commission-approved courses.

As shared in a June 29 memorandum, the new Risk Management courses consist of the following:

- Risk Management: Avoiding Violations (3 hours)—Level 1 course required for all salespersons and brokers.
- Risk Management for Salespersons (3 hours)—Level 2 course available for all salespersons.
- Risk Management for Brokers (3 hours) Level 2 course required for all brokers and available for all salespersons who are interested.

When 6 hours of Risk Management have been completed, the remaining 9 hours of CE can be any Commission-approved courses.

All instructors who plan on teaching Risk Management next license period must attend this instructor training. You must attend all 12 hours of the training to receive approval to teach one or all of the courses. Those who do not attend will not be able to teach Risk Management until the training has been offered again. All three Risk Management courses will be covered in this training.

The two days of training will provide attendees with all 12 hours required for instructor renewal in 2013. Remember, these hours are not interchangeable with CE hours that are needed to renew your broker license. These CE hours are only applied toward the renewal of your instructor approval. Make plans to attend this instructor training and acquire not only the approval and knowledge to teach the new Risk Management courses but also the hours needed for instructor renewal.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATORS

CMap is Not Like Facebook and Twitter

- Does your school have a long list of approved instructors in CMap?
- Is is sometimes difficult for you to locate the correct instructor while searching through your extensive list?
- Why not have some of them removed?

If there are instructors on your list that have not taught for your school for a long period of time or maybe they taught on only one occasion, they can be removed from your list of approved instructors just as easily as they were added. Not only would this reduce the number of instructor names you have to search through when adding a course in CMap's Manage Course Schedules, it would actually reduce your liability.

How could this list create liability? We have had a couple of incidences of individual instructors offering classes without the school's knowledge or active sponsorship. When entering the course credit and selecting a school, the instructor was able to select any of the schools for whom he or she had been approved to teach without the school administrator's knowledge. As a result, the school and school administrator are now held responsible. If this situation occurs, what if the instructor doesn't give you the records and that is discovered during a school audit? What if that instructor neglects to put a specific licensee's credit in CMap and that licensee goes inactive on October 1 of a license renewal year? That student would be advised to call you because you were identified as the sponsoring school.

The Education Division wants to help you avoid these types of occurrences by removing all unnecessary instructors from your list. Please take the time to review your list of instructors and send us a list of those that you would like removed. We do suggest that you wait at least a month after an instructor has taught for you to have them removed so that you can confirm that all credit for that course has been entered into CMap. You will be unable to enter credit into CMap for a course in which the instructor has been removed. Therefore, if mistakes are found at a later date, the Education staff will have to then enter the credit for you.

If you want an instructor added back at some point in the future, a simple email sent to the Education Division will get them added back within minutes. This isn't Facebook or Twitter where you are trying to get as many friends and followers as possible. Trim your list and make your life easier.

The Education section is now found under Professionals on the website. Education Applications are located in the Education section. The Consumer section has been expanded and now contains information on obtaining a license as well as the Prelicense Course Evaluation (since prelicense students are not yet real estate professionals). The Educator newsletter and License Law can now be found under Media.

The new website still contains all of the information that was provided on the previous website and the Commission staff will continue to expand the site to include videos, tutorials, and other information for instructors, licensees, and consumers.

QUESTION What must my school do to be able to offer Distance Education (DE) courses?

ANSWER The approval process is very detailed and more involved than classroom courses. A brief summary of steps include the following:

- The instructor you plan to use for the DE courses must obtain the Certified Distance Education Instructor (CDEI) designation prior to being approved to offer the course(s). For more information on the CDEI, go to www.idecc.org.
- Choose between offering DE as a primary provider or a secondary provider. Primary providers develop their own courses and can offer them directly to licensees. Secondary providers sell the courses that have been developed by primary providers.
- All DE courses that you wish to offer must be certified through ARELLO.
- Submit the course to the Commission for review and approval after obtaining ARELLO certification.

Rule 790-X-1-.21 in Alabama License Law provides more information regarding distance education courses.
